Description

These test leads with 4 mm safety sockets each have a coupling, which makes it possible to connect other test leads to them. The safety of these measuring lines is ensured by the double insulation of the lines and the protection against accidental contact with conductive metal parts. As a result, this accessory is ideal for use in training and service.

Technical features

- 4mm safety cable with coupling
- Suitable for currents up to 10 A
- Overvoltage category CAT III 1000V / CAT IV 600V
